

ASCO Statement on Equity, Diversity and Inclusion

Since its founding in 1964, the American Society of Clinical Oncology (ASCO) has been dedicated to access to the highest quality, equitable cancer care for everyone, no matter who they are, where they live, or the color of their skin. At a time in our history when deep-seated issues of racial, social, and economic equity in America and other parts of the world call on us to do more, we continue to work together to enact meaningful change. ASCO celebrates diversity and strives daily to make sure that every patient has access to high quality care, and all members of the professional community and our staff are supported and embraced regardless of race, religion, gender, gender identity, or country of origin.

About the American Society of Clinical Oncology

Founded in 1964, the American Society of Clinical Oncology, Inc. (the Society) is committed to the principle that knowledge conquers cancer. Together with the Association for Clinical Oncology, ASCO® represents nearly 45,000 oncology professionals who care for people living with cancer. Through research, education, and promotion of high quality, equitable patient care, ASCO works to conquer cancer and create a world where cancer is prevented or cured, and every survivor is healthy. Conquer Cancer, the ASCO Foundation, supports the Society by funding groundbreaking research and education across cancer's full continuum.
