The State of Oncology Practice in America reports on important trends in oncology practice ownership, practice concerns, along with details on the size, geographic distribution, and number of practices. This report is part of the American Society of Clinical Oncology (ASCO) State of Cancer Care in America series, which is published in the Journal of Oncology Practice.

TOP ONCOLOGY PRESSURES
- 58% of surveyed practices say payer pressures are a top concern
- 76% Prior authorizations
- 62% Coverage denials/appeals

EVERCHANGING ONCOLOGY PRACTICE LANDSCAPE
- 18% of practices opened a new site
- 9% of practices merged/joint venture
- 8% of practices purchased a site

CONSOLIDATION CONTINUES
- 25% of practices grew (18% shrunk) from 2016 to 2017
- 9.4% decrease in practices from 2013 to 2017 (2,248 total oncology practices in the U.S.)

DESPITE CONSOLIDATION, MOST PRACTICES REMAIN SMALL
- 76% employ 1-5 oncologists
- 21% employ 6-40 oncologists
- 3% employ 41+ oncologists

GETTING READY FOR MIPS
- 34% Unsure
- 8% Unprepared
- 58% of oncology practices prepared to comply with MIPS

CANCER CARE IN RURAL AND SOUTHERN U.S.
- 7% of oncologists practice in rural areas
- 38% of new cancer cases were diagnosed in the South
- 19% of the U.S. population resides in rural areas
- The South had the largest share of practices (33%)